CPA4	As you may know, Section 301 of the Trade Act of 1974 grants the President of the United States the ability to investigate and enforce U.S. rights under trade agreements and respond to unfair trade practices by foreign countries. The U.S. government imposed Section 301 tariffs after an investigation showed China's acts, policies, and practices regarding technology transfer, intellectual property, and innovation were threatening U.S. businesses and American workers. Do you support or oppose the U.S. continuing to impose Section 301 tariffs on China?

CPA5	As you may know, Section 301 tariffs grant the United States the ability to investigate and enforce U.S. rights under trade agreements and respond to unfair trade practices by foreign countries. Congress is currently considering a bill that would weaken the U.S. government's ability to combat foreign unfair trade practices with Section 301 tariffs. Which of the following actions do you think Congress should take?
	Strengthening the U.S. government's ability to impose Section 301 tariffs	946	47%
	Weakening the U.S. government's ability to impose Section 301 tariffs	110	6%
	No change to how the U.S. government currently imposes Section 301 tariffs	430	21%

CPA6	As a reminder, Section 301 tariffs grant the United States the ability to investigate and enforce U.S. rights under trade agreements and respond to unfair trade practices. The U.S. government imposed Section 301 tariffs after an investigation showed China's acts, policies, and practices regarding technology transfer, intellectual property, and innovation were threatening U.S. businesses and American workers. The U.S. government recently granted importers exclusions on 352 products made in China. The U.S. government grants exclusions if an importer is unable to source the product anywhere outside of China. Should importers be required to provide proof that they cannot source a product outside of China before the U.S. government grants an exclusion?

CPA7	As a reminder, Section 301 tariffs grant the United States the ability to investigate and enforce U.S. rights under trade agreements and respond to unfair trade practices. The U.S. government imposed Section 301 tariffs after an investigation showed China's acts, policies, and practices regarding technology transfer, intellectual property, and innovation were threatening U.S. businesses and American workers. Manufacturers in China, and the companies that import their goods to the U.S., have been lobbying the U.S. Congress to get refunds on the tariffs they have already paid because their goods made in China were provided an exclusion. Do you support or oppose the U.S. government using taxpayer dollars to refund companies importing Chinese products that are now excluded from tariffs because they paid Section 301 tariffs in the past?

CPA8	As a reminder, tariffs are a tax paid by importers bringing in foreign-made goods. The U.S. government can impose tariffs if they determine imports from a foreign nation pose a direct threat to a U.S. industry or American workers. Knowing this, which of the following comes closest to your opinion, even if neither are exactly correct?
	Increased imports have caused the U.S. to become dependent on China for goods that are critical to the U.S. economy and U.S. national security. Tariffs should be used to protect U.S. industries and American workers.	1232	61%
	Increased imports have lowered the prices of goods in the U.S. Tariffs should not be used because they are harmful to the U.S. economy and will raise the prices of goods.	316	16%
